

AS TO THE LOCAL FERRY.

With the new pier wrecked for a distance of over 600 feet, the Bay St. Louis Henderson Point ferry is temporarily out of commission. What will be done to restore the service, no one knows. However, opinions and indications as to what will be done is told in THE SEA COAST ECHO.

BAY ST. LOUIS, MISSISSIPPI, SATURDAY, OCTOBER 20, 1923.

BAY SEA WALL STANDS TEST.

A fair test was given the Bay St. Louis sea wall Monday night and during the early hours of Tuesday morning. While other shores and roadways along the Coast were washed away, Bay St. Louis remained intact. About it in THE SEA COAST ECHO, your home paper.

32ND YEAR—NO. 42.

BAY SEA WALL IS GIVEN FAIR TEST IN STORM FURY

Structure of Steel and Concrete Belting Bay St. Louis From End to End Stands Buffet of Water, Wind and Debris—No Damage Sustained.

WALL PROVED OF INEPTIMABLE VALUE TO BAY CITY.

Storm, However, Collected Heavy Toll in Property Outside of Wall—County Ferry Pier One-Third Value Destroyed—Bay Sea Food Company Suffers Loss.

Bay St. Louis and the balance of the Mississippi Gulf Coast was struck Monday night by gulf hurricane, reported at some points to have blown at the rate of 60 miles an hour. After midnight Tuesday morning the fury of the storm was at its worst, and while of only a few hours' duration, it played general havoc. Fortunately no lives were reported lost out in the open and swamps.

With a tide running over the sea wall this structure of steel and concrete, erected by the municipality of Bay St. Louis at a cost nearly totaling a quarter million dollars, stood the brunt of water and debris, pounding all night with incessant force. How well the wall stood is best attested by a visit from one end of the other of the front of the city. At no place is the slightest damage. Thousands of dollars of property, formerly subject to the aging elements, remained intact. In a few places the spray washed the gravel from the surface of the road, but this can be replaced, even though the roadway is not damaged.

Ferry Pier Wrecked and Out of Commission.

The biggest surprise was that the long ferry pier was wrecked to an extent as to make it of no use and putting the Bay St. Louis Henderson Point ferry out of commission. This structure, cost $200,000, and the city of Bay St. Louis paying $1,000.00 towards the cost. Fully one-third of it has been carried away. The end of the pier was taken away by high water in one solid piece, and found the next morning deposited on the low beach west of the R. L. L. Breath property. The pier is hardly a year old; practically new, it was least expected the storm had carried it away.

Bay Sea Food Company's Pier Damaged.

Damage sustained by the Bay Sea Food Company, R. N. Blaize's pier, was comparatively light, although the entire superstructure of the long pier from shore out to the extreme end was carried away. Piling and stringers, however, remained in place. Buildings at end, housing the company's business and that of the Liberty Oil Company, remained intact. Mr. Blaize visited the buildings by boat, after the storm, and found the telephone in working order and the electric lighting all in shape. "In fact," Mr. Blaize said to The Echo, "no damage whatever was sustained at the end of the pier." He also said that some time next week, the damages would be repaired and business would be resumed the same as usual.

City Loses Bridge Over Marsh.

In addition to suffering the loss of road surface in several places where the water spray over the sea wall washed away gravel, the municipality lost the bridge over the front road where the marsh meets the waters of the bay, north of the Peetles Oyster Company's property. However, the authorities were not slow to get on the job and the work of rebuilding was begun at once. Both Mayor Webb and Street Commissioner Kimball and a force of men lost no time in getting busy.

Several private bath houses and houses were washed away among them a new one of Dr. Smith's. It was noted where such structures were built high no damage resulted.

Waveland Beach Front Washed Away.

Waveland, unprotected from the warring elements, in the absence of any spoken of and discussed for the last few years, suffered the usual loss. The front road was completely washed away along the greater part of its way and in many instances encroached on private property.

That the storm was of sufficient intensity to inflict such damage to the Waveland beach front, well shows the potency of the sea wall as a factor in Bay St. Louis' escape from serious loss. It evidences a fact better than it could be told.

However, the people of the front roadway at Waveland are not so daunted, and we feel satisfied in due time adequate protection will be provided for.

ECHOES FROM ST. STANISLAUS

With S. S. C. Collegians in Class Room and on Campus

St. Stanislaus to Play Pascagoula. The S. S. C. Rock-a-Chaws will play the strong Pascagoula Army School here tomorrow at 3 o'clock. This is the first time that the College will compete against such aggregation, and all indications are that the game will be one of the best of the season.

Come one, come all, and see the Rock-a-Chaws go through their line.

Class '24 Victorious Over Class '23.

Last Thursday night the followers of indoor ball were treated to a good game. The superiority of Class '24 was shown in the very first inning, when eight men faced Lanassa, star pitcher of Class '23. It was either that "Jimmy" was not in his prime or that the artillery of Class '23 was too much for him. In that inning five men crossed the plate safely.

Class '24 put up a well balanced team under the leadership of "Fanny" Martin. Besides "Fanny" there are other star players that make up the team. "Tony" Schiro was on the mound for Class '24 and he certainly covered himself with glory when he held the opposing aggregation to one run in five innings.

The only man to get a good hit was C. Mayers, when he hit for a home run. "Big Zeek" was helpless last night, but he played a good game on the defense.

The real surprise of the game was when "Fatty" Welsh, center field of Class '24, got a home run with the bases filled. This is the longest hit ever seen here.

Class '23 has a good bunch of players, and the only reason why their loss is because they were surpassed in every inning by the sensational playing of the Seniors.

The line-ups were 20 to 6 in favor of Class '24.

The Seniors are eager to arrange some more games, and would like to hear from the Juniors or Sophomores.

Is Favor of Prohibition?

Before the magisterial law of prohibition was passed, my brother Tony, who had been married for a couple of years and whose marriage had been blessed with four children, was the greatest of drunks in this section. His home was miserable, his wife and children endured the greatest hardships of life. The children had ardent faces, and hunger was prevalent everywhere; hunger was patched into them with straw and rag and wool and paper.

When Tony would return from his wanderings after weeks in which not even a kind word was spoken to children or wife, those languid and cadaverous faces stood by, hand in hand, lying for food, and he like a beast if not worse, would only growl.

Now that this sublime law has been passed, Tony owns a beautiful home up in New York, smokes fine cigarettes, wears flannel pants, fine shining shoes, and a derby, too. Nothing is wanting in his new home. The people who knew him before look now upon him as the man who regenerated himself. "Look," they say, "what prohibition has done for Tony. He enjoys the comforts of life and has plenty of money."

But why shouldn't he? He is the biggest bootlegger in New York.

S. S. C. Rooting Club Organized.

Monday evening, under the direction of Bro. Regis, the rooting club was definitely organized. More than three-fourths of the Big Yard will compose this organization, whose aim is no other than to revive and incite in every collegian the old college spirit which has prevailed at St. Stanislaus.

A Jelly Bean Poem.

A young fellow was arrested on Canal street the other day. He looked at the policeman and these words he had to say: "Please don't arrest me, Jelly Bean, I'm sure don't like that name."

For every time I hear those words it drives me most insane.

I know, policeman, with you I haven't got a jerk.

I'm just a tough luck fellow and lately out of work.

I may look like a "Jelly Bean" or "Jelly Doughnut" or "Jelly Roll."

But every time you see me I'm always looking neat.

I admit I go to Kirby's, and also go to the police station.

I've got you policemen guessing just why I like to dress.

My people haven't any money and I'm just a poor boy.

For every time they see me looking neat it fills their hearts with joy.

I admit I hang around D. H. Holmes and Edmond Maison Blanche, too.

To come up and arrest me when you've nothing else to do.

Sometimes I go into Worners to drink and eat ice cream.

Now you can call me most anything, but please not "Jelly Bean."

Little Baffer.

On Saturday, October 13th, the Tulane Freshmen came to Bay St. Louis to play the S. S. C. Rock-a-Chaws.

Most likely the Tulane aggregation was hoping to repeat last year's tune, but when the whistle blew for the opening, Tulane found a little surprise on the Rock-a-Chaws defensive and aggressive attack.

It was a very interesting game and the excellent broken field running by Norman, Tulane's quarter, made us remember the days of "Hippo" Phillips.

Kessler made the touchdown on Tulane on an intercepted pass and a Harvard run. H. Wilson failed to kick the point. Zeek Bonura made the touchdown for Stanislaus on a Harvard pass.

Score by quarters: 0-0-0-6. Stanislaus—12-0-0-0-6-0.

Touchdowns: Tulane—Kessler, H. Wilson failed to kick. Stanislaus—Bonura.

Gex also failed to make the point.

Down But Not Out.

Last Sunday the Babe-Rock-a-Chaws opened their football season. Fighting against heavy odds the Little Rock-a-Chaws went down to defeat at the hands of the strong De Molays of New Orleans by the score of seven to nothing.

The game had its thrilling moments and was exciting throughout. During the second quarter the visitors brought the ball to the Juniors' 4-yard line, but lost it on downs.

George Welsh, star half-back of the Reserves, was there, as good as ever, and although his work was of the highest order, he failed to score. Capt. "Joe" Giardina, holding the right extremity, was also a stellar performer.

In the second half De Molays kicked to the 45-yard line. Haydel received the ball and returned 22 yards. Neither team could advance much and the quarter was an exchange of punts, till Paltron intercepted a pass and raced 42 yards for the only tally of the game. Paltron placed kick for the point.

All chance of scoring was lost by the Rock-a-Chaws in the last quarter when they passed the ball to De Molays whenever they gained on downs. The game ended with the ball in possession of the De Molays.

Substitutes: De Molays—Hammond for Beyer, Moore for Villars, Lilly for Lusk, Keiffer for Mumford, Stanislaus—Reed for Koch, Guidry for Keiffer, Koch for Cassidy.

The line-ups:

Partly Wiped Away in Front of White House, at Biloxi, and Kelly Avenue, in Gulfport—Force of Two Hundred Men Working Day and Night.

COAST TRACTION LINE IS HIT HARD EVERY STORM.

Biggest Asset to Tourists and Visitors Receives Set Back—Has Never Paid a Cent Dividend to Its 210 Stockholders—G. & S. I. R. R. Succors.

Perhaps the hardest hit of any interest along the Mississippi Gulf Coast by the storm of Monday night and Tuesday morning is the Mississippi Gulf Coast Traction Company, operating between Pass Christian and Point Cadet, at Biloxi, spanning the entire coast line of Harrison county. In several places for considerable distances the high water and wind washed away entirely the tracks of the company. The worst breaks in the track are in the vicinity of Kelly avenue, in Gulfport, and in front of the White House, at Biloxi. Thus putting the operating of cars entirely out of commission. A force of two hundred men is now repairing the damage and making every effort to get the line in operation at the earliest possible moment. When this will be, is not known, but expected within the next few days.

By reason of the traction company being one of the chief assets and institutions on the Gulf Coast, some facts concerning the conditions of it will be interesting to the people of the entire Coast and elsewhere. The facts given herewith were ascertained from W. T. Stewart, president of the company, by the Gulfport Herald.

There are 210 stockholders in the traction company, who are scattered over Mississippi, Ohio, New York, Pennsylvania, Indiana, Virginia, and some in Belgium and France. Only 36 per cent of the stock is owned by residents on the coast. The road has never made a dollar since it was built. It has never paid a cent of dividends. In fact, on account of storm damage it has lost a great deal of money.

Passenger business has, for the past several years, been a losing proposition. Freight business in the past few years has helped to revenue of the company to a considerable extent. This freight business has been secured largely by assisting to develop industries along the line at different places.

Because of the lack of money-making for such a long period of time the outside stockholders have refused to give financial aid to the enterprise in emergencies such as storms which take out the tracks and the G. & S. I. R. R. has come to the rescue with funds to put the road into operating shape and has had to wait until some of the money could be paid back.

After the 1915 storm there was not a dollar on hand with which to put the road into running condition and the G. & S. I. R. R. furnished the means with which to get it going. Later the Traction Company borrowed some money and it now owes $15,000 of this sum, having managed to pay some on the debt at different times.

Because of the lack of beach protection the storm of Monday night cut off earnings and revenue which will cost an estimated total of probably $75,000, was the statement of Mr. Stewart. This cost is being cared for by the G. & S. I. R. R. The work of rehabilitation is being pushed as rapidly as possible.

When asked if there was a probability of the Traction Company putting its tracks on a back road, such as the Handsboro road or some other place, Mr. Stewart stated positively that there was no intention of doing so. The company of having the tracks at any other place than along the beach. No effort was being made nor was it contemplated to get a right of way on any back road except where the road already had a right of way. If the traction line is taken off the beach, said Mr. Stewart, it will be abandoned.

It was the opinion of both himself and his engineers that the only way to save the railroad and also the beach highway from serious storm damage was to put in a permanent sea wall or protection of some kind, and Mr. Stewart, speaking for the Traction Company, said that it was willing to do its part in the construction of such a shore protection.

bers on the violoncello were compelling. She played with depth of feeling, expressing sentiment and when she first wielded the bow it was evident a musician had appeared.

Miss Buckley, pianist and vocalist, displayed talent with equal effect. It was plain she is not merely a performer, but an artist with all the attributes of a gift. Her technique and interpretations were commensurate with her knowledge of music.

The hope is expressed that the Howard Russell Revue will return to Bay St. Louis next season. It is evident the faculty of St. Stanislaus College has procured the very best there is in musical entertainment, and if the first number is taken as an index it is certain other numbers to follow will be in Class One.

Next season number is dated for December 1st. Season tickets on sale at College.

Howard Russell's Revue Score Signal Success as First Number of St. Stanislaus College Lyceum Course.

Ample repaid were those who braved the threatening weather Wednesday night to attend the first number of St. Stanislaus College Lyceum, produced under the auspices of White and Meyer's Lyceum Agency, of Kansas City, Missouri. Howard Russell's Scottish Revue was the attraction, composed of Howard Russell, baritone, singing classic and character numbers; Miss Buckley, pianist and vocalist; Miss Reid, cellist.

It is seldom a trio of stars combine in concert work. It is seldom, if ever, such talent visits Bay St. Louis or other towns of equal size. Such attraction could only be supported and carried through the medium of lyceum organization.

There is no intention in the course of merely a news article as this to offer an analytical criticism, but in passing a word of deserved praise will not be amiss.

It was given out as a personal opinion by parties who were present Wednesday night, and we will sustain the expression, Howard Russell is not only the equal but in instances the superior of Harry Lader. Howard Russell might not have the reputation but possesses qualities as a Scotch entertainer that easily puts him in a class of his own. His appearance is pleasing attractive personality, and when he sings of the lassie he loves and who loves him, his appearance is not a contradiction, as in the other case. One could listen for hours to Howard Russell and not tire of the contrary, he is ever engaging. His baritone voice is ringing, well handled, with artistic finish. He sings a ballad with pleasing effect and he can render a dramatic number in such manner that stamps him as an artist of versatility.

Miss Reid is an artist. Her number stage with her violoncello—Fanny exclaimed: "Gee, but isn't that a big violin!"

Can You Picture—
Bell coming in time for class?
Bessie being serious?
Zoe failing to go to the ball games?
Ellen getting angry?
Rosalie losing her appetite?
Mary practicing her music?
Agnes growing tall?
Alice (B.) getting 100 per cent in geometry?
Carmel studying for a moment?
Marie H. finishing her exercises on time?
Alberta missing a day of school?

Judge For Yourself Why—
Ellen loves the song "My Buddie."
Louise looks forward to Friday.
Mary hates to wear new dresses.
Carmel is so thrilled when her sister comes over.
Virgil is so fond of Hazel.
The boarders love football better than baseball.

"Rock-a-Chaws."
To the Rock-a-Chaws of S. S. C.
We now will give a toast,
For they're a team of which anyone
Would be most proud to boast.
A team with pep and splendid rep,
That upholds their old school's name.
A team surpassing all the rest,
When you count for football fame.
A first-class team, in a first-class town
From a first-class college, too.
So now "Go Get 'em Rock-a-Chaws,"
While we loudly cheer for you.

Now believe me when I tell you so,
For in this I do not jest,
When it comes to naming football teams
The Rock-a-Chaws are the best.
And now as we have said before,
The girls of S. J. A.
Hope they will win all games,
No matter WHO they play.

Sophomore's Dream.
One night as I lay on my pillow,
Free from all troubles and care,
A curtain lifted before my eyes,
And I saw the future there.

The first thing that attracted me
Was a handsome bungalow.
On its porch sweet Alice sat,
Near her a Kitty purring low.

I didn't stop to look again,
But wandered further on.
And came upon a high school,
Not knowing how far I'd gone.

I silently crept to the doorway,
I heard our Mary's voice from within.
"Unlike signs always give minus,
Now remember or I'll keep you in."

As I thought upon these wonders,
Hardly believing that they were true.
I stopped before a stately bank,
Hoping to see a face I knew.

And as I fled on by instinct
I walked just inside the door,
And there sat Agnes, a stenographer,
Our once dignified Sophomore.

I hurriedly left the office,
For it was a puzzle to me,
And I rambled on my way,
Another classmate soon to see.

For in a luxurious car,
Gliding smoothly down the street,
Rode Isabel, a famous movie star,
Whom at the A. & G. you may meet.

A hospital next I chanced to pass,
And you can imagine my surprise
When Caroline, a nurse in white,
Appeared before my eyes.

I wondered what would happen next
But the sun with its golden gleam
To find it was all a dream.

An hour later they entered the

BAY FERRY PIER PARTLY WRECKED

Storm of Monday Night and Tuesday Morning Put Local Ferry Out of Commission.

Bay St. Louis is without its ferry, operating between this city and Henderson Point, connecting up the Old Spanish Trail, and local trade is suffering. All traveling between the Bay St. Louis point and the balance of the Gulf Coast has been cut off. When Monday night's storm was at its fury Tuesday morning, the high water, infuriated by the wind, said to have blown at a maximum velocity of 60 miles an hour, carried away the entire landing at the end of the long pier, and in two places carried away the structure. The structure, costing the county $2,200.00, is practically a wreck. It will require both time and money to replace it. And this in view of the fact that it was not a year old.

The ferry boat, "Cecil N. Bean," was on the Henderson Point side of the bay Monday night, where she weathered the gale. Later Captain Drackett had the boat steam around Jordan river, where it is landed at the Wena Sawmill Company's property and will remain there until the structure is replaced.

As to what action is to be taken in the matter of restoring the ferry into commission is not known. The pier is owned by the county. But no action has been taken. The Board of Supervisors can be called together and the matter discussed and disposed of.

It is thought the first pier built by the county, located at the Peerless company's property, could be used. This suggests the feasible idea that this structure is in good shape and weathered the storm without injury. A little work in building a movable bridge at the end is all that would be necessary. But to do so involves authority from the county. Captain Drackett said to the effect yesterday he was ready to resume operations at a moment's notice; that he is only awaiting the pleasure of the authorities in charge.

There is a disposition, although it has not been officially expressed, nor was it authorized to state it, that the ferry should bear part of the burden of restoring the pier. The contract, however between the Drackett Line and the county has no mention of such emergency. In the meantime, we are hoping the ferry will be repaired at the earliest moment. It is the public suffering inconvenience in the meantime.

H. S. Weston, president of the Board of Supervisors, stated to The Echo last night that there was nothing he could say just now that could throw light on the probable course to be adopted, but that it was a matter for the Board of Supervisors to handle. He would call no special meeting of that body, but since it would meet soon he would wait until the regular session to take the matter up.

He said this pier had cost the county over eight thousand dollars, but it was a heavy burden to the taxpayers and to practically rebuild the wharf now would mean additional burden. However, it was a matter for the taxpayers and the Board to discuss and to decide of and not until that body met could anything be said or done in the premises.

Mr. Weston intimated that he favored the use of the old county pier at the Peerless factory. Slightly damaged by the storm, he said, it could be put in shape at comparative small cost, and used until the taxpayers were out of the woods. "It will be remembered the new pier was built at the instance of a petition of local taxpayers, notwithstanding the county had already and was using the pier at the Peerless plant. It is a pity that such petition would be necessary to have the new pier built, if local taxpayers so desired and urged."

CELEBRATE TWENTY-FIFTH WEDDING ANNIVERSARY

The home of Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Day, in Toule street, last night was the scene of quite a gathering of friends to celebrate the twenty-fifth wedding anniversary of this well-known and estimable couple.

Misses Elsie and Ruth Day, daughters of the home, were in receiving and entertaining the guests during the evening. Many beautiful tokens were received by the honorees of the evening. Many of the pieces of silver were useful and beautiful. The number and beauty of the presents well attested to the popularity of Mr. and Mrs. Day.

The celebration was in the form of an informal reception. Later in the evening refreshments were served.

The Echo wishes to mingle its best wishes and congratulations with the many friends and acquaintances of Mr. and Mrs. Day, wishing for a continuance of their ideal and happy family life and that they may at least see their golden wedding anniversary.

LOCAL MILITARY CO. HAS GOOD BOXING

Exhibition at Armory Last Monday Night—Two "Knockouts" and a "Technical" of Kila Scores.

The local Company 155th Howitzers of Mississippi National Guard put on a neat card last Monday evening at their armory, and despite the inclement weather by a pretty fair attendance of dyed-in-the-wool fans, who appreciated the run they got for their dollar.

The main bout was between Harry (Kangaroo) Cameron, Kila, Miss., against Sailor Johnson, of New Orleans. It was scheduled to go eight rounds, but Johnson took the count in the sixth, after a couple of hard ones in the "bread basket" and repeated wallows to the head during the clinches. It is said that the Sailor claimed that he had been fouled with his opponent's knee, but Referee Vic Lizzano couldn't see that.

Johnson was playing to the head and seemed accepting the blows to the head as so many love taps, sticking out his tongue and grinning in apparent amusement, but soon his demeanor changed and the Kangaroo's "love taps" showed fairly early, particularly after the blows delivered in the place where food is stowed away for duty. Dad Manieri was in the Kangaroo's corner.

The semi-final was to go six rounds between "Big" Red Cady and Bill Lutzich, but after a few minutes of three fast rounds Bill had lost all of the ozone and concluded to retire as a spectator, giving the technical K. O. decision to Big Red.

The evening's performance started with an engagement between "Little" Red Cady and Buddy Seiber. Red's great shock of "lilacs" went for long in his foretop, so he had Bill Lizzano play barber with a penknife. Bill gave him a beautiful pompadour in short order, but the loss of his hairstyle didn't repay him because the fight had gone only one minute and ten seconds.

Feinted with his left and sent over a haymaker in the shape of a right cross to the jaw, sending the lil red one to the land of dreams, where the little birds sing of lillilooms and various other classics.

ON THE GRIDIRON—FLEAS BITE FLIES.

By Fuller Bull.

On Sunday, as a prelude to the main bout between Scorpions and De Molays, the baby Scorpions, the O. B. battled with each other for four quarters on and over the field. The Fleas, led by Quarterback Tooga Glover, romped over the Weewee Toca Flies to the tune of a dozen to zero.

They were a hard fighting lot, hesitating at nothing, dashing in, though it were the call of Pie instead of punch, and every-to-be-man making Bro. James feel that he was training a bunch of coming Rock-a-Chaws that would come day be a credit to old Stanislaus.

Proud Papa Glover was trailing up and down on the side lines with his chest stuck out where buttons couldn't reach. "Tell those guys that's MY boy, Fuller, that's leading that team." You know that Papa G. in the business of Quarterbacks? Yes, he is. Didn't you know that Cyril is the lad who sings out the signs over at A. & M. and is going to show what he's made of on Sat., the 20th, when they lick Ole Miss?

That's Papa's son, too.

And—let's fess up—and all of us Daddies are enjoying Papa G., ain't we?

"Goat" Hale and his Aggies will soon be here to give us battle, and folks will have a chance to see the lad who had the reputation of going through any old line.

It Did, Too.

Son—Mother, did you ever hear a rabbit bark?

Mother—No, dear. Rabbits don't bark.

Son—That's funny. My book says rabbits eat cabbage and bark—Railway News.

AGGIE OLE MISS GRID REVIEW

Ole Miss Has High Hopes of Victory This Year—Students and Both Schools Will Attain Battle.

Special to The Sea Coast Echo. A. and M. College, Miss., Oct. 19. —Perhaps no better gridiron battle in the annals of Southern college football has been fought as does the annual game between Mississippi A. and M. and the University of Mississippi.

The first football game that Mississippi A. and M. ever played was against Ole Miss in 1901; the first football game that A. and M. ever won was that game. Since that time these two schools have met 20 times on the grid; A. and M. has won 14 games, tied 1 and lost 4. Ole Miss has won 4 games, tied 1 and lost 14. Ole Miss has not won from the Aggies since 1914.

These two teams are scheduled to meet in their twenty-first annual fray in Jackson on October 20, the last day of the Mississippi State Fair. According to a custom of many years' standing, a large quota of each student body will accompany its team to the battleground. The greater part of a thousand young Mississippians will journey forth from each school, each contingent packing its love for its respective alma mater, its unequalled support for their teams and its hopes and fears.

A gratifying thought to Mississippi in general is the fact that though this is probably the oldest traditional game between two schools of the same state in the entire South, that there has never been the usual trouble that results from contests of a similar nature in other States. Although rivalry was never more keen than it is between these two schools, this clash of interests has never had to be abandoned because of unportsmanlike conduct on the part of either student body.

To Ole Miss this is the greatest game scheduled. Every other game is anti-climatic. She would give her left ear to win from A. and M. Although the Aggies do not consider this game as the feature of their schedule, the knowledge of the fact that Ole Miss has a better team than the one last year and that she is determined to capture the Aggie scalp has infused a similar determination into the Maroons to keep said scalp intact. The game should be rather interesting.
